

PATRICIA PEDRAZA, Connecticut

Patricia Pedraza is a self-taught digital photo artist determined to flood the world with joyful color. Raised primarily in Latin America and Asia, her work is influenced and inspired by the rich aesthetic traditions she witnessed and absorbed as a child. In kaleidoscopic fashion, she takes an original digital photo, (often a flower) then deconstructs it and reconstructs it via creative flips, twists and turns until a new image emerges. Retired after 20 years of being a producer at CNN, Ms. Pedraza splits her time between Connecticut and NYC. Her work has been exhibited in galleries and magazines. She is the current Artist-in-Residence at Connecticut's Ridgefield Guild of Artists (Summer 2021).

Pedraza's coloring book, Kaleidoscopix is on sale at Gold Coast Arts.
