

thatgirlstef, New Hyde Park, NY

Awarded the title, “the next best thing” by a few friends and family members, thatgirlstef is an up-and-coming artist that has a drive to create. Hailing from New Hyde Park, thatgirlstef has practiced art since childhood, recalling her first major mural created outside her 1st grade classroom in Great Neck’s Lakeville Elementary School, which depicted the children’s book, “Strega Nona.” Since then, she’s enjoyed experimenting with new techniques and mediums, but finds herself most in her element using mixed media. She reflects on pop culture, draws inspiration from her expansive taste in music, and is inspired by various artists such as Alex Pardee. Her work has been displayed in retail stores, and as large murals in storefront windows. With a promising future, thatgirlstef is on a never ending journey to explore her creativity. A percentage of all works sold will be donated to various foundations important to the artist.
